

MEMORIALS.
THE FALL CAMPAIGN!

D. HARRIS & CO.,

have just received a full and complete assortment of

DOMESTIC

AND

Foreign Dry Goods!

BED, WHITE AND BLUE

Dining Rooms,

Main Street, Second Door South of Chase

House,

PLEASANTVILLE, PA.

Also, Ladies and Gentlemen's

Ice Cream and Oyster Saloon, up Stairs,

Oysters served in Every Style

Aug. 22 J. S. DEVER, Proprietor

PLEASANTVILLE BAKERY.

On Main Street, four doors south of Brown Brothers store.

HENRY VEGG, PROPRIETOR

Fresh Bread & Pastry constantly on hand at low prices and delivered free of charge.

J. H. JACK & SON,

Of Pleasantville,

Have ready: Lamp for Lamp, Also 100 various oils & 100 umbrellas

W. T. GRAHAM,

ATTORNEY AT LAW

Offices in St. Nicholas Building Main St.

Pleasantville, PA.

All kinds of legal papers carefully drawn. Trials examined &c.

D. L. & A. H. SPENCER

MERCHANTS

Groceries & Provisions,

Three doors South of Chase House, Main Street

LEASANTVILLE, PA.

All Goods Delivered Free of Charge

Aug. 15th

New Meat Market.

RICE & BROTHER, Butchers,

MAY STREET,

NEAR THE HARMONIAL WELLS

Pleasantville, Pa.

HOTELS, RESTAURANTS AND BOARDING

HOMES SUPPLIED AT THE

THE VERY LOWEST RATES.

Aug. 15th

JOSEPH MILLER,

JEWELER,

Main Street, Pleasantville, Penna.

Ornery's Jewelry Centre

Stocks always on hand repairing all kinds of goods in my line. A full stock of

WATCHES CLOTHES JEWELRY, CLOTHES,

Antique & Curious, Pic. Ware, Glass, etc.

All kinds of Glassware, Glass, etc.

Aug. 15th

C. R. CHURCH,

No. 7 FRANKLIN STREET,

(NEXT TO AMERICAN EXPRESS COMPANY)

Would call the attention of the public to the Largest, Best and Cheapest

Stock of Goods in Western Pennsylvania, which he is selling at prices that

DEFY COMPETITION.

The attention of

Hotels, Boarding-Houses Saloons and Private Families

Is particularly requested, as they will find everything that is necessary

Goods Carefully Packed and Shipped.

Country Stores and Dealers

Liberally dealt with All kinds of

LAMPS, CHIMNEYS AND WICKS.

Oil and Gasoline my stock and prices, and be convinced.

115 Fire Test Kerosene Oil

Always hand

ALL GOODS DELIVERED IN THE CITY FREE

OF CHARGE

Sept. 15th

FRED. NYELAND,

SUGARMAN CO.

B. D. NORRIS.

MANUFACTURER OF

All Kinds of Soda Water

AND-

Dr. Cronk's Root Beer.

OFFICE - At No. 8 and 10 Brook Street, Titusville, Pa.

Boston Glass for sale.

Aug. 25th

HARRISON PRESCOTT,

COMMISSION MERCHANT AND BROKER IN

PETROLEUM OIL,

No. 10 Central Street, Boston. Financial references and full information can be had from Mr. Abbott & Son, Boston National Bank, Boston, Mass.

ROOMS TO RENT

OF DIFFERENT KINDS.

Rooms for offices, studios for 40 cents per sq ft.

and offices require as to Franklin Street.

Geo. S. STEWART

HILL & ARMSTRONG.

Pleasantville, Pa.

Manufactured & Tool FISHING. Also, all kinds of FISHING Tools described at the shortest notice.

HARRISON PRESCOTT,

Titusville Morning Herald.

Tuesday, October 22, 1868.

KATHLEEN WATSON ON BUCKY PARK.

Varieties.

The Crittenden House reopened yesterday.

Anne Weston's dramatic company performed in Titusville Saturday evening. See advertisement.

Got assessed. To-morrow will be the last day prior to the November election.

A Court for naturalization will be held in this county on the 30th day of October, 1868. Persons interested will please take notice.

James T. Tindall, independent candidate for Asst. Justice of the Peace, received 28 votes in Crawford county.

The name of Thomas M. Marshall, Esq., is mentioned in connection with the United States Senatorship for Pennsylvania, by Senator Buckalew, whose term expires with the present Congress.

A portion of our editorial columns escaped correction yesterday, and several vexatious errors appeared in print—perhaps an unusual number! Among them we notice that "In the heat of the battle" is keeping the Franklin Exchange. This sounds well for Stanton, but it is a gross libel upon Stanton, the cleverest and most popular host that ever perpetrated a contumacy.

Black Powder devotees considerable since to a description of Pleasantville, with which he was thoroughly disgusted. And so would! After taking himself home he sought three chears for Grant and Colfax—just to try them—and he got three chears and a tiger, the fierce he ever heard. Pleasantville is a bad place to get stuck, either in mud or politics.

The official vote of Warren county gives Hiram, Rep., over Boyle, Dem., a majority of 1,108; Campbell over Kinn, 1,000; Schofield over Brown, 1,001; and the balance of the Republican county ticket by a majority varying from 1,044 to 1,082. The total vote of the county is 4,872—showing an increase of 615 over 1866. Of this the Republicans gain 303, and the Democrats 310. Jerry Scutell run 55 behind Hiram and Brown 22 ahead of Doyle.

Petroleum in the boat.

The Philadelphia Ledger says the petroleum product of Pennsylvania having taken rank among the great and most valuable resources of the State, the production of that article in other quarters of the world, from whence it may enter into competition with ours, has a strong interest for many of our readers. It is interesting, too, to note the comparative geology of our district with some of the abroad, as well as to contrast with our own the widely different means adopted for raising the oil among the people unskilled in mechanical contrivances in oriental countries. Some information on these points is furnished by the narrative of Captain Yale, an English officer in India. On the east bank of the Irrawaddy, there is a town called "Fetidwater Haven," a name more appropriate than alluring, the internal supply of water being cut off through the dry season, and the only substitute being obtained from a sluggish, oily looking stream of the same name, flowing through the town.

Three miles distant are the principal petroleum wells of Burma, a group of about a hundred wells, being within the area of about a half a square mile, and in some places less than a hundred feet apart. Another smaller group occur in a small valley, a mile to the south. The oil is found in a bed of impure lignite, with much sulphur, a stratum of this which was observed out-cropping, with petroleum oozing from between the fissures, was the cause of its original discovery. The wells are rectangular cuttings about four and a half by three feet and a half, and lined with horizontal timber at the bottom. Their depth varies from 180' to 300' feet, and the machinery used in drawing the oil is simply a rude attempt at windlass, mounted on the trunk of a small tree, and laid out two or three foicks up rights, an earthen pot being let down and filled. The Burmese have no record of the original discovery of their petroleum, nor of the time when the first shaft was sunk. The wells are private property, twenty three families of rank, supposed to be the natural heirs of the first explorers, forming a corporate body for the protection of their joint interests, and no strangers being allowed to dig a well.

The estimated production of the Burmese wells, by a recent investigation, is 1,000,000 barrels of oil the annual yield from the two groups of wells is about 11,000 tons. Formerly it was worth about four dollars per ton, but since the annexation of Pug, the demand at Rangoon has raised it to nearly nine dollars. The most common mode of shipping the oil to Rangoon is in an awkward, flat-bottomed sloop, entirely composed of planks extending throughout the entire length of the vessel, which is propped up by oars, and is divided into two great cabs, terms, into which the oil is carried in like gourds, and each vessel carries about 400 tons. The temperature of some of the oil drawn up quickly from a depth of two hundred and seventy-five feet, was nearly nine degrees, being twenty degrees warmer than the air at the same time. It is thought that the increase of temperature is due to chemical changes in progress in the head, and results in the production of petroleum from the vegetation embedded in the rocks.

In the West side of the lake, opposite the village of Memnon, are some curious "oil wells." Conical hollows or craters are filled to the brim with black oil, only looking mud, as stiff as heated pitch, which will heave and swell, and suddenly bursting upwards with a great explosion, will fall back in the cauldron below with a sullen flop. From these a strong odor of petroleum is emitted, and that oil is continually bubbling up, the mud being continually heated to fire the heat, and nerve the hand of another Booth, and perpetrate another Civil War?

We have now shown indisputably, why Blair is a scamp, is of a scampish color, and has but little malignant odor. It is universally used as a lamp oil in the empire, and the priests, who are the only physicians, also apply it as a liniment, and administer it as medicine in cases of cholera. The word works and carvings which adorn their roofs and porticos are saturated with petroleum, to preserve them from the ravages of insects. The wonderful delicacy and elaborateness of some of these carvings, and the exquisite taste of the workmen, are to be marveled at in a nation that, to all the generations since the first shaft was sunk, have devoted nothing better to draw their petroleum, with than a rude earthen-pot, and nothing better to burn it in than another pot, with cotton seeds for a wick. Such is the form taken by the civilization of a people so childish in their ideas, and so exclusive in their policy as the Burmese.

ELEGANT FURNITURE.—Mr. W. W. Russ has lately received many new and elegant sets of furniture, which, for excellence of workmanship, good taste of design, and the selection of material generally, are worthy of great admiration. The new stock comprises complete parlor and chamber sets, elegant chairs, sofas, lounge, looking glasses, hat and book racks, etc., etc. The materials are of black walnut and rosewood, with plentiful carvings and other ornaments, together with plainer and less expensive styles, but of beautiful patterns and very substantial appearance. Mr. Russ' rooms are on Diamond street, opposite the Herald office. He is doing an immense trade, like everybody else who is in the HERALD, and we are glad of it.

FRANK MACHINERIES, Lobsters, Clams, Oysters in the shell and to cans, received daily at Frank's; Also Fish and Whelk.

'Blair and the New York World.'

The N. Y. World has Blair "on the brain." It lays the defeat of the Democratic party in Pennsylvania to Blair, due to Ohio, to Blair. Blair is held responsible for their losses in Maine, and Vermont. In Connecticut Blair has been the unkindest around the neck of the Democratic party. In Nebraska and New Mexico, but for Blair, all would have gone loyally with the Democracy. Blair has been the evil genius of the Democracy all through the campaign, says the World. Blair is an incubus, the nightmare, the Old Man of the sea, raves the World in its desperation. Blair is the political Jonah and must be thrown overboard, or the good Democratic ship will go down to the bottomless deep, or, being already submerged, will never come to the surface again.

It is a "big job" the World has on its hands, the Old Man of the sea, raves the World in its desperation. Blair is the political Jonah and must be thrown overboard, or the good Democratic ship will go down to the bottomless deep, or, being already submerged, will never come to the surface again.

It is a "big job" the World has on its hands, the Old Man of the sea, raves the World in its desperation.

A Court for naturalization will be held in this county on the 30th day of October, 1868. Persons interested will please take notice.

James T. Tindall, independent candidate for Asst. Justice of the Peace, received 28 votes in Crawford county.

The name of Thomas M. Marshall, Esq., is mentioned in connection with the United States Senatorship for Pennsylvania, by Senator Buckalew, whose term expires with the present Congress.

A portion of our editorial columns escaped correction yesterday, and several vexatious errors appeared in print—perhaps an unusual number! Among them we notice that "In the heat of the battle" is keeping the Franklin Exchange. This sounds well for Stanton, the cleverest and most popular host that ever perpetrated a contumacy.

We have turned over our files of July last, to see how Blair wasominated in the New York Democratic Convention, and have read the proceedings all through, and we can find nowhere any authority given to the editor of any Democratic newspaper to change the Ticket, or to change the Platform in any contingency. We find that the Democratic Convention had twenty-two ballots before they elected Seymour, but that Blair was nominated on the first ballot for the Vice Presidency. We find that "Pennsylvania seconded the nomination of that great soldier and statesman F. P. Blair." We find that the name of every other candidate for the Vice Presidency was withdrawn, and each State called in order, in order that they might vote unanimously for Blair. Let us quote further. "The Chair announced that a unanimous vote having been cast for F. P. Blair, he was the nominee of this Convention for the Vice Presidency." Ed. S. Cox rose to move that the nomination be ratified by the unanimous voice of all delegates and audience, and the entire assembly voted in three cheers, a compliment that was not paid to Mr. Seymour.

What does this record show, but that Blair is the spontaneous choice of the party, the true type of the rest purpures and sentiments of the Democracy, East and West, North and South. Read the platform. At the 8th session and there will be found the Broadbent letter which gave Blair his nomination, bound down and condemned—there will be found the Reconstruction act characterized as Blair's letter described them "unscrupulous, unconstitutional, revolutionary and void."

It is to be withdrawn, because he is regarded as the raw head and bloody bones of another civil war, play what is to be done with the platform? If the Broadbent letter is to be repudiated, what will be done with the Revolutionary plank, in the platform—those which make the very marrow and essence of it all, which the very marrow and essence of it all, and which Wade Hampton introduced, as a herald and pledge that the "Lost Cause" was yet to triumph by Seymour's ballot and Blair's votes? There is no proposition that we hear of from the World, or any other organ of the party to make the Democratic platform over, to cleanse it from the taint stigma of Repudiation, or the blood freshly shed by Southern treason.

In his speech, accepting the nomination, Seymour said, he had failed to make the platform; he had tried in its formation he asstended to all its propositions, and approved of its declared policy.

It is on this very identical platform; it is on Seymour's war record; it is on the acts of Congress; it is on the masterly genius, the patriotic record, the equal poised conservatism, the personal nobility and disinterestedness of Grant the General and Grant the citizen and man that the late political campaign has been conducted to a Republican triumph, by the American people wherever they have found a voice from the Standard.

What then, is the explanation of this strange wayward temper, this absolute tone, mingled with a half savage, and half coaxing entreaty on the part of the World that Gen. Blair the "rebel" (or Gen. Blair) the accused, whichever you please, will be graciously pleased, or will consent to be kicked off the National Ticket; his name erased from their banners? It is because of an insane fear of Gen. Seymour's that his life would not be safe, if Blair were by virtue of his office the next heir to the White House, and could leap into the Executive Chair in case of a fortunate vacancy?

Who shall answer this question?

Was there ever in this free country, till treason reared its crest and struck at the Nation's life, in the history of any party, such an example of monstrous and unscrupulous personal ambition as this man Blair has exhibited? Has any candidate ever before threatened to override the will of the majority by the bloody instruments of revolution? Has any candidate ever before proclaimed that his defeat would be the death-bell of the institutions of his country? Has any candidate ever before adopted "assassination" as the watchword of his faction?

What then, is the explanation of this strange wayward temper, this absolute tone, mingled with a half savage, and half coaxing entreaty on the part of the World that Gen. Blair the "rebel" (or Gen. Blair) the accused, whichever you please, will be graciously pleased, or will consent to be kicked off the National Ticket; his name erased from their banners? It is because of an insane fear of Gen. Seymour's that his life would not be safe, if Blair were by virtue of his office the next heir to the White House, and could leap into the Executive Chair in case of a fortunate vacancy?

Who shall answer this question?

Was there ever in this free country, till treason reared its crest and struck at the Nation's life, in the history of any party, such an example of monstrous and unscrupulous personal ambition as this man Blair has exhibited? Has any candidate ever before threatened to override the will of the majority by the bloody instruments of revolution? Has any candidate ever before proclaimed that his defeat would be the death-bell of the institutions of his country? Has any candidate ever before adopted "assassination" as the watchword of his faction?

What then, is the explanation of this strange wayward temper, this absolute tone, mingled with a half savage, and half coaxing entreaty on the part of the World that Gen. Blair the "rebel" (or Gen. Blair) the accused, whichever you please, will be graciously pleased, or will consent to be kicked off the National Ticket; his name erased from their banners? It is because of an insane fear of Gen. Seymour's that his life would not be safe, if Blair were by virtue of his office the next heir to the White House, and could leap into the Executive Chair in case of a fortunate vacancy?

Who shall answer this question?

Was there ever in this free country, till treason reared its crest and struck at the Nation's life, in the history of any party, such an example of monstrous and unscrupulous personal ambition as this man Blair has exhibited? Has any candidate ever before threatened to override the will of the majority by the bloody instruments of revolution? Has any candidate ever before proclaimed that his defeat would be the death-bell of the institutions of his country? Has any candidate ever before adopted "assassination" as the watchword of his faction?

What then, is the explanation of this strange wayward temper, this absolute tone, mingled with a half savage, and half coaxing entreaty on the part of the World that Gen. Blair the "rebel" (or Gen. Blair) the accused, whichever you please, will be graciously pleased, or will consent to be kicked off the National Ticket; his name erased from their banners? It is because of an insane fear of Gen. Seymour's that his life would not be safe, if Blair were by virtue of his office the next heir to the White House, and could leap into the Executive Chair in case of a fortunate vacancy?

Who shall answer this question?

Was there ever in this free country, till treason reared its crest and struck at the Nation's life, in the history of any party, such an example of monstrous and unscrupulous personal ambition as this man Blair has exhibited? Has any candidate ever before threatened to override the will of the majority by the bloody instruments of revolution? Has any candidate ever before proclaimed that his defeat would be the death-bell of the institutions of his country? Has any candidate ever before adopted "assassination" as the watchword of his faction?

What then, is the explanation of this strange wayward temper, this absolute tone, mingled with a half savage, and half coaxing entreaty on the part of the World that Gen. Blair the "rebel" (or Gen. Blair) the accused, whichever you please, will be graciously pleased, or will consent to be kicked off the National Ticket; his name erased from their banners? It is because of an insane fear of Gen. Seymour's that his life would not be safe, if Blair were by virtue of his office the next heir to the White House, and could leap into the Executive Chair in case of a fortunate vacancy?

Who shall answer this question?

Was there ever in this free country, till treason reared its crest and struck at the Nation's life, in the history of any party, such an example of monstrous and unscrupulous personal ambition as this man Blair has exhibited? Has any candidate ever before threatened to override the will of the majority by the bloody instruments of revolution? Has any candidate ever before proclaimed that his defeat would be the death-bell of the institutions of his country? Has any candidate ever before adopted "assassination" as the watchword of his faction?

What then, is the explanation of this strange wayward temper, this absolute tone, mingled with a half savage, and half coaxing entreaty on the part of the World that Gen. Blair the "rebel" (or Gen. Blair) the accused, whichever you please, will be graciously pleased, or will consent to be kicked off the National Ticket; his name erased from their banners? It is because of an insane fear of Gen. Seymour's that his life would not be safe, if Blair were by virtue of his office the next heir to the White House, and could leap into the Executive Chair in case of a fortunate vacancy?

Who shall answer this question?

Was there ever in this free country, till treason reared its crest and struck at the Nation's life, in the history of any party, such an example of monstrous and unscrupulous personal ambition as this man Blair has exhibited? Has any candidate ever before threatened to override the will of the majority by the bloody instruments of revolution? Has any candidate ever before proclaimed that his defeat would be the death-bell of the institutions of his country? Has any candidate ever before adopted "assassination" as the watchword of his faction?

What then, is the explanation of this strange wayward temper, this absolute tone, mingled with a half savage, and half coaxing entreaty on the part of the World that Gen. Blair the "rebel" (or Gen. Blair) the accused, whichever you please, will be graciously pleased, or will consent to be kicked off the National Ticket; his name erased from their banners? It is because of an insane fear of Gen. Seymour's that his life would not be safe, if Blair were by virtue of his office the next heir to the White House, and could leap into the Executive Chair in case of a fortunate vacancy?

Who shall answer this question?

Was there ever in this free country, till treason reared its crest and struck at the Nation's life, in the history of any party, such an example of monstrous and unscrupulous personal ambition as this man Blair has exhibited? Has any candidate ever before threatened to override the will of the majority by the bloody instruments of revolution? Has any candidate ever before proclaimed that his defeat would be the death-bell of the institutions of his country? Has any candidate ever before adopted "assassination" as the watchword of his faction?

What then, is the explanation of this strange wayward temper, this absolute tone, mingled with a half savage, and half coaxing entreaty on the part of the World that Gen. Blair the "rebel" (or Gen. Blair) the accused, whichever you please, will be graciously pleased, or will consent to be kicked off the National Ticket; his name erased from their banners? It is because of an insane fear of Gen. Seymour's that his life would not be safe, if Blair were by virtue of his office the next heir to the White House, and could leap into the Executive Chair in case of a fortunate vacancy?

Who shall answer this question?

Was there ever in this free country, till treason reared its crest and struck at the Nation's life, in the history of any party, such an example of monstrous and unscrupulous personal ambition as this man Blair has exhibited? Has any candidate ever before threatened to override the will of the majority by the bloody instruments of revolution? Has any candidate ever before proclaimed that his defeat would be the death-bell of the institutions of his country? Has any candidate ever before adopted "assassination" as the watchword of his faction?

What then, is the explanation of this strange wayward temper, this absolute tone, mingled with a half savage, and half coaxing entreaty on the part of the World that Gen. Blair the "rebel" (or Gen. Blair) the accused, whichever you please, will be graciously pleased, or will consent to be kicked off the National Ticket; his name erased from their banners? It is because of an insane fear of Gen. Seymour's that his life would not be safe, if Blair were by virtue of his office the next heir to the White House, and could leap into the Executive Chair in case of a fortunate vacancy?

Who shall answer this question?

VENANGO COUNTY OFFICIAL RETURNS,
Of the General Election held Tuesday October 18, 1868.

City	County	Assembly.	Democrats	Abolition and Friends.
Allegany	Allegany	107	53	54
Armstrong	Armstrong	107	53	54
Butler	Butler	107	53	54
Cameron	Cameron	107	53	54
Clarion	Clarion	107	53	54
Clearfield	Clearfield	107	53	54
Clinton	Clinton	107	53	54
Crawford	Crawford	107	53	54
Greene	Greene	107	53	54
Hancock	Hancock	107	53	54
Jefferson	Jefferson	107	53	54
Lawrence	Lawrence	107	53	54
Monroe	Monroe	107	53	54
Northampton	Northampton	107	53	54
Oil Creek	Oil Creek	107	53	54
Ottawa	Ottawa	107	53	54
Perry	Perry	107	53	54
Washington	Washington	107	53	54
Westmoreland	Westmoreland	107	53	54
Wilson	Wilson	107	53	54
WV.	WV.	107	53	54</

SOMER'S Morning Herald

PHOTOGRAPHIC.

MATHER'S

PHOTOGRAPHER,

SPRING ST., NEAR AMERICAN HOTEL.

THE OLDEST ESTABLISHED IN THE OIL REGIONS!

IN PREPARATION FOR THE SPRING TRADE.

The proprietors would like to call the interest of the public to their Patent, the ONLY STEEL-UNIVERSAL REST AND POKING APPARATUS, the only one in the part of the State, and used by a leading Photographer, colored in Crayon, after the style of Oil Pictures, in any style. Landscape Views taken to order. A large assortment of albums and frames.

The Patent is also used in erecting steep roofs, &c., & is also prohibited.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received $100 for each.

The Patent is also used in making ordnance, & in making gun mountings for artillery.

A French submarine diver lately went down drilled and found a ship in the bottom of the sea.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements

for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received

$100 for each.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements

for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received

$100 for each.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements

for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received

$100 for each.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements

for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received

$100 for each.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements

for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received

$100 for each.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements

for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received

$100 for each.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements

for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received

$100 for each.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements

for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received

$100 for each.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements

for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received

$100 for each.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements

for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received

$100 for each.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements

for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received

$100 for each.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements

for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received

$100 for each.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements

for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received

$100 for each.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements

for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received

$100 for each.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements

for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received

$100 for each.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements

for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received

$100 for each.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements

for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received

$100 for each.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements

for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received

$100 for each.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements

for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received

$100 for each.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements

for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received

$100 for each.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements

for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received

$100 for each.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements

for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received

$100 for each.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements

for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received

$100 for each.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements

for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received

$100 for each.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements

for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received

$100 for each.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements

for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received

$100 for each.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements

for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received

$100 for each.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements

for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received

$100 for each.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements

for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received

$100 for each.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements

for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received

$100 for each.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements

for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received

$100 for each.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements

for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received

$100 for each.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements

for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received

$100 for each.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements

for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received

$100 for each.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements

for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received

$100 for each.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.

Domenico Mazzoni, who wrote advertisements

for Paris merchants, is dead. He has received

$100 for each.

The Patent is also used to hold

the world's largest barrel of Hamburgh.